The Bench Infinito is a piece of furniture awarded by the A'Design Award in 2013, which stands out for its sinuous interplay of wooden and stainless-steel blades. Furthermore, it is ergonomically comfortable and solid.

One of the interesting features of this bench is its flexibility in terms of size, as it can be made in different sizes, depending on the number of blades added. This means that it can suit different spaces and needs.

In summary, the Infinito Bench is an award-winning design piece that combines aesthetics and functionality in an innovative way, offering a sculptural element to the environment, as well as comfort and solidity for those who use it.
